German Electronic Musician Bernhard Wöstheinrich performs with Ombient on Saturday 13 April 2019 in the remarkable setting of St. Mary's Hamilton Village and The Gatherings Concert Series . Worms of the Earth will provide an opening set of Dark Ambient Music

Bernhard Wöstheinrich speaks in his own musical voice. Providing a unique perspective in his increasingly frequent collaborations with a range of noted international artists, the musical arc of his work often moves from the curiously beautiful to the beautifully curious. Fully formed and thoughtful energetic songs are driven by a firm pulse amidst simultaneously sounding musical lines. With harmonies trailing behind melodies these shimmering works disintegrate into swirling unanchored abstractions of sustained tonal ambiance.

An intriguing listening experience, Wöstheinrich's music benefits from great conceptualization, arranging and musicianship. Together with local Electronic Musician Ombient (Mike Hunter) this duo pulls off their collaborations with startling brilliance.

Traversing an illusory aural territory Worms of the Earth opens a gateway to the darkest corners of the human psyche. As ancient tribal and gritty industrial elements coalesce into layers of arcane drones, ethereal choirs and eastern melodies, this work attempts to explore and understand the inverse realm of primordial chaotic energies. The focal point of the sonic explorations of Electronic Musician Dan Barrett is the creation of deep tracks with numerous subtle complexities.
